the first novel written in the yoruba language and one of the first to be written in any african language for upwards of 25 years yemi d prince also known as yemi d ogunyemi has systematically devoted himself to the education research and reason of creative writing and from creative writing to creative thinking and from creative thinking to yoruba narrative cultural folk philosophy on realizing that creative thinking has become his area of focus and interest he succeeds in cultivating big ideas combining them with his life long experiences in the humanities transforming them into new ways of writing thinking or reasoning some of his big ideas have led to the publication of booklets such as yoruba idealism we should all be philosophers the artist philosophers in yoruba land codes of morality and pursuit of wisdom thus his big ideas have helped him separate yoruba folk philosophy from yoruba autochthonous religion with his love for big ideas born out of creative thinking and critical thinking he has been able to put a new face on yoruba philosophy some of the essays in this book notably those concerned with examining western influences on sub saharan african writings tracing shakespearean and brechtian echoes in nigerian drama for instance or following the footprints of sherlock holmes in swahili detective fiction fit the traditional definition of comparative literature these are essays that cross national literary boundaries and sometimes transcend language barriers as well they look for correspondences in related literary phenomena from widely dispersed areas of the globe bringing together what is akin from what is akimbo but most of the essays included here involve closer comparisons two focus on works produced in different languages within the same african nation yoruba and english in nigeria afrikaans and english in south africa and one presents a taxonomy of dominant literary forms in english in three east african nations others concentrate on the oeuvre of a single author and on the likely future output of exiled writers who soon will be returning home one essay contrasts discursive tendencies within the same text and another investigates conflicting african and western religious beliefs a great variety of comparative methodologies is deployed here not all of these are transnational multilingual or pluralistic in scope the last two groups of essays deal with matters of characterization and authorial reputation studies of the depiction of african americans politicians and women in a wide range of african literary texts are followed by an assessment of the current standing of anglophone africa s leading authors in entering such highly contested terrain the comparatist approach adopted has been that of the neutral witness to early african attempts comparatist in their own way to define an african canon of classic texts authors discussed include ama ata aidoo ghana chinua achebe john pepper clark cyprian ekwensi d o fagunwa wole soyinka and amos tutuola nigeria peter abrahams j m coetzee nadine gordimer alex la guma thomas mofolo es kia mphahlele and karel schoeman south africa this volume seeks to identify and examine two categories of colonial and postcolonial knowledge production about africa these two broad categories are environment and landscape and both are useful and problematic to explore discussions about african environments often concentrate on africans as perpetrators of their own land causing degradation from lack of knowledge and technology landscape defines the category of knowledge produced by foreigners about africa where africans remain part of the scenery and yield no agency over their surroundings to flesh out these categories and explore their creation and how they have been deployed to shape colonial and postcolonial discourses on africa this volume investigates the technological pastoral the points of convergence and conflict between western notions of pastoral africa and the introduction of colonial technology scientific ideas and commodification of land and animals
