the essays collected in this volume are interdisciplinary in nature defying the traditional boundaries that compartmentalise and contain knowledge within particular camps heir to the â undiscipliningâ tm legacy of cultural studies they attempt to transcend the restrictive frameworks of pre established discourse engaging in new and fruitful combinations of theories and methodologies the general aim of the book is to indicate new perspectives for the exercise of cultural criticism on the basis of the major issues that confront us today rather than articulate any canonical viewpoint on traditional cultural studies these essays thus share a common denominator in that they seek to explore the field of current "experience" through the exercise of critique the recontextualisation of cultural studies that this book attempts occurs along the vectors of identity politics visual culture and technology the collection draws attention to the fact that these vectors do not consist in delimited "camps" but rather in axes that intersect with each other at each instance in contours of culture the authors discuss the uses of various ethnographic methods in the study of culture drawing on their field research with an opera company welsh artists and classes on the popular brazilian martial art capoeira in their practical research and in the research of other scholars they encounter complex problems and themes that often require new ways of organizing and conceiving cultural material and even new ways of giving expression to phenomena that are only partially understood this book is not only about the inherent complexities involved in ethnography it is also about the kinds of opportunities available to researchers immersed in this complexity and how they might grasp cultural settings in their entirety
